President Diaz does not talk like a man who was going to waste any salt sprinkling it on the tail of the dove of peace.

One of the most lamentable features of the Howard Gould divorce case is the report that Count Boni de Castellane is coming to this country to testify.

The Prohibition party is now sending a slumming expedition to Panama. Apparently they are not content with seeing the dirt fly, and want to see the mud spatter as well.

This is the season of the year when the affairs of nations are being settled by the valedictorians to their own satisfaction, even if the small statesmen of the Bismark, Root, and Tellerand class occasionally blunder and fall.

An English chemist now announces that he has produced a rustless iron. Apparently all that remains is for some lawyer to produce an incontestable will, and the last of the insurmountable objects will have been surmounted.

Judge Harmon of Ohio said the other day that the Republican leaders would never make a satisfactory revision of the tariff. What he probably meant was that no revision of the tariff would ever be satisfactory to the Republican leaders.

The statement of Senator Daniel that the Democratic platform should be confined to matters on which the Democrats were agreed, sounds very much as tho' the Senator expected the party to go into the campaign on an airship instead of a platform.

Violent protests are being made by a number of highly protected interests against the arrangement that the United States is entering into with Germany for the continuance of trade relations pending the formulation of a definite commercial treaty that can be signed by the two governments. The arrangement consists in allowing the manufacturers in Germany to swear to the valuation of certain classes of goods that are made solely for export and whose price cannot be fixed by comparison with the home market. It is a small concession and not one that in the opinion of the Secretary of State or the Secretary of the Treasury, both of whom are parties to the agreement, will result in any undervaluation of German goods. But, of course, the howl of "executive usurpation" is being raised by a number of already over-protected interests. It is not usurpation at all, but a timely expedient to meet a pressing emergency. It is designed to help American relations, not only with Germany, but with other foreign countries, and all classes of citizens ought to be glad that the arrangement has been made instead of attempting to decry it.

After having special agents in the field for months working up the case, the Department of Justice has decided to act against several of the most powerful of the eastern coal-carrying roads. The prosecutions will follow the expose of methods by the Interstate Commerce Commission last summer. It will be recollected that it was shown these roads, running through the soft coal region had formed a sort of trust and pooled their coal freight. They owned and operated a number of mines and reserved their coal cars exclusively for the use of their own mines. The independent miners could not get cars, could not get switches, sidings or rail connections for their mines and were entirely at the mercy of the railroad combination. This combination had been in force for ten years. The Department of Justice thinks it has a clear case against all of the roads, and the fines, if imposed, will amount to over $1,000,000. It is the most important action ever contemplated by the government against the railroads. There is another and similar suit contemplated against the anthracite roads, and if the two are pushed to a successful conclusion, they will do much to break up unfair discrimination of the railroads against independent producers not only of coal, but of other commodities.

Ninevah.
Farmers are about all getting blue from the effects of the weather we have been having of late.

James Vanata and family were in Greenville Saturday afternoon. George Andrews and son Joe of Coldwater and the former's daughter, Mrs. Clara Debolt, and her son, of north of Greenville were guests of Levi Unger's over Sunday.

Our Children's Day entertainment was held in the church here Sunday evening, with a large audience present.

Frank Nicholas and wife were in Greenville Saturday.

Samuel Unger's and Charley Snyder's were visiting relatives near Trotwood Sunday.

"Did it hail any at your place Friday night?" was the question often asked on the streets Saturday. It did not hail so very much right here, but north and east of us they got it very hard, doing much damage to wheat, fruit, tobacco plants and garden truck. In the vicinity of Landis window lights were broken and tobacco canvass not of the best were riddled. Hail stones fell that were as large as hen eggs and larger. If you should pass through this vicinity a year hence you may possibly see the marks left on fences and buildings. It was but a narrow streak, maybe a mile wide.

John Judy, who lives just west of us, was a Greenville visitor Saturday.

Charley Hansbarger is very poorly at this writing, also Jesse Fletcher, who lives north of Jaysville; both have consumption.

The ground has been too wet for a couple of weeks to work, consequently there is scarcely any corn plowed or tobacco set. Nearly everything is at a standstill.

George Seman, formerly of near here, was buried at Troy Friday, where he had resided for some time. He was aged about 25 years and had been married only a year.

The infant son of Earl Fritz and wife was buried at Abbottsville Saturday. It was six or eight months of age.

Sweet potato sprouts are pretty scarce around here.

Owing to weather conditions there were quite a number from around here attended the show in Greenville this week.

Adam Swingle and wife were John Unger's guests Sunday.

B. E. Delk and Harry Reichard were in Greenville Thursday on business.

Gettysburg.
The Yorkers' meeting, held a couple of miles north of our village yesterday, attracted a good deal of attention from not a few of our citizens.

Children's Day exercises, appointed for yesterday at the M. E. church, was postponed a couple of weeks for reasons deemed sufficient to justify the action.

The Trio Concert Co. exhibited here last Thursday night to a good attendance and seemed so well encouraged as to wish to return and give something more entertaining, that an arrangement was consummated by which they will appear again next November.

The Sunday School Association of this township at its last meeting elected the following officers for the ensuing term: P. B. Moul, president; A. F. Little, vice president; Elsie Loughridge, secretary; Tobias Paulin, treasurer.

L. S. Gilbert and wife were Greenville visitors yesterday.

Last week a young carpenter of the name of Miller, working for Contractor Zimmerman, fell from the roof of a building and sustained several severe injuries.

P. R. Cromer, wife and child, taking a drive yesterday afternoon were victims of a serious accident, their horse taking fright from an approaching auto a short distance west of Blacktop school house and took to the ditch, overturning the buggy, and came to a halt in a hedge fence, inflicting considerable injury to occupants, buggy and horse. As has been said, it is dangerous to be safe, even with a gentle horse sometimes.

Our fellow-citizen, Daniel Moul, spent three days last week at Dayton. What he was doing there does not seem to be on the surface, and some say he does not tell what business transactions he carried on while there, and thus it is. However, we know that he was not engaged in any harmful or wrongful conduct.

In strolling through our cemetery we observe the tastes of different people in caring for the graves of their relatives. We find some who yet persist in rigging up the graves according to an ancient mode, which, at this enlightened day, could be relegated to the rear with a good deal of propriety. Maintaining this mode of improving the silent city compares well with maintaining the candle dip and lard lamp in preference to the improved gas and electric lights. It seems to me that every person ought to know that every cemetery improved with a nicely sodded level surface slightly terraced is the most beautiful appearance and shape that can be given to any grave, and facilitates the work of keeping clean. Let us discard antiquity, and fall in line with a modern and more symmetrical manner of doing things and one that will meet the approval of the more enlightened thought of the present. Before laying down this subject of cemeteries it has lately been rumored that vandalism has been indulged to some extent in our cemetery. It is said that several graves on which were kept some very valuable flowers had the collection rumaged, and some of the best and finest plants taken and carried away. To call this a desecration of the graves is designation the act in a manner that fails to describe the heinousness of the act. If persons wish to possess fine flowers would it not be very much better for them to buy them than to take them from the graves of the dead, placed there by loving hands and who feel greatly grieved by the loss and especially from the manner of loss? Persons who have sustained such losses say they know the persons guilty of the depredations, but out of respect for them and to save them from exposure to the public charitably withhold such knowledge, but if persons guilty do not desist from these depredations a publication will be made by prosecutions of the persons committing the offense. Let every person be circumspect and avoid exposure for such despicable conduct.

On last Friday night a severe rainstorm visited this place, accompanied with a heavy fall of hail in some places, doing large damage in a good many ways to crops, roads and buildings. A few washouts along the roads have been reported and some crops, &c., badly cut and destroyed.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Eradicating Pimples.
As a rule, lotions of any sort are not worth while for pimples. Sometimes they take off the outside, but make matters worse by driving in the eruption.

First look for the cause; then try to reach it by proper means; then, when one is sure that the system is in good order, a cooling, cleansing and curative wash or cream may be used. A simple ointment that often helps is made by mixing half an ounce of spermaceti ointment, to be had at any drug store, with half a dram of glycerin and eight-ten grains bicarbonate of soda. Wash the face well, using almond meal or a jelly made of soap, Ruse, dry and rub in some of this. Let remain fifteen minutes, then wipe off all but a very little, which should be left all night.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Arrowroot Water Jelly.
Stir two tablespoonsful of arrowroot into as many tablespoonsful of cold water until it is smooth. Have ready over the fire a cupful of boiling water in which you have dissolved two teaspoonsful of white sugar and a pinch of salt. Add the dissolved arrowroot and continue to stir until it is clear, keeping the water at a boil all the time. Add a teaspoonful of strained lemon juice and take directly from the fire. Turn into small mold's wet with cold water and when cold set on ice. To prepare for eating empty mold upon a saucer, strew with fine sugar and druech with cream. Should the invalid like the flavor of rosewater season delicately with it.

Useful Hints.
Rubber and leather casters are now frequently put upon furniture which is to be placed on a hardwood or stained floor.

Where brasses are much discolored an application of a solution of salt and vinegar is advisable before using the customary brass polish, as the work of polishing is much more quickly performed.

Handsome glass vases may be kept free from the accumulation of dust at the bottom by inserting a wad of tissue paper the color of the vase when it is not in use. By taking this means of keeping them clean the brilliancy of the glass is retained.

Novel Egg Beater.
Obviously the object of all mechanical egg beaters is to imitate the movement of the hand in beating up the egg. So far no mechanical power has been devised which equals the hand beating. In these so called egg beaters the paddles, instead of beating the egg, generally revolve in a circular path, which stirs but does not beat the egg. The nearest approach to hand beating is shown in an egg beater illustrated herewith. In this apparatus the beater does not revolve, but is operated back and forth, obtaining both the efficiency of the hand beater and the rapidity of the machine beater. It is held in one hand and operated by the other.

Uses of Glycerin.
Glycerin and oatmeal made into a paste with rosewater constitute an ideal face lotion to remove the effects of cold winds. As an addition to the bath glycerin scented with rose perfume will impart a delightful freshness and delicacy to the skin. The proportions being four ounces of glycerin to one gallon of water. For a cough or a cold a tablespoonful of glycerin in a cup of hot milk gives instant relief.

Two parts of glycerin and one part of powdered willow charcoal also is a help in case of severe cough.

To Clean Zinc Tubs.
These tubs are somewhat difficult to keep in good order. They ought to be frequently washed with a strong solution of soda and melted soap to remove all grease; then, after being rubbed with a wet cloth which has been rubbed with soap and dipped in finely powdered scouring soap, they should be finally well washed and most thoroughly dried. They ought then to be polished with a dry cloth dipped in whiting.

Turtle Soup.
Have water in boiler boiling and drop in turtle; let boil a few minutes, for that helps loosen the flesh from shell; take out and run a sharp knife all around shell; take by head or tail and draw out; cut up, clean and wash thoroughly; cook until tender, season with salt, pepper and an onion or celery if liked.

Relief For Burns.
Equal parts of linseed oil and lime-water make the finest thing possible for burns. A bottle of this mixture should be in every household.
